PHILADELPHIA:

WRONDSDAY EVENING, JULY 8, 1820.

PROM OUR CORRESPONDENTS.

From a correspondent at St. Thomas, the ediors of the American have received a file of the Times to the 14th uft. inclusive. A smart shock shock is said to have been succeeded by a loud rombling noise, like that of distant thunder .-The Times contains estracts from Barbadoss papers to the Boih May. On the 19th of that month, a public meeting was hold at Bridge Town, at which the following resolution was

Town, at which the following resolution was adopted unanimously:—

"Resolved,—In consequence of the great drought in the Island (Barbadoen) for many months past, it is the opinion of the meeting that there will be great distress thoughout the Island, unless there he an immediate isportation of food from other places.

"It is also the opinion of this meeting, that should there be rain shortly, yet corn, potatoes, and the other necessaries of life, cannot be produced under four months, and that there is not food sufficient in the Island to supply the wants of the inhabitants for more than half that period."

On the motion of the Hon. Win. Eversley, seconded by Win. Oxley, Esq. a petition to the effect of there force joing resolution, was passed and unanimously agreed to.

"Resolved therefore, That a petition be prepared to his bonner the President, praying his honor for the reasons herein stated, to permit and encourage by proclamation or otherwise, the importation of the necessary supplies of floor, bread, potatoes, rice, corn, corn-meal, peas, beans, and grain of every description, from the United States of America and other fereign ports."

It does not appear, from any further extracts the 30th May.

At Demarara, in consequence of the late debuilt are required to be of stone or brick, and covered with tile, slate or metal. A bank was about to be established at Suri nam, with a capital of three millions of guilders, under the auspices of the "King and Governor of the Netherlands."

Mr. Barnova, in a speech delivered not ong since, at an annual meeting of the Burrish and Fourier School Society, at Loxpon, referred to the state of society in CONNECTION on effectually refuting the pretence that general education is not promotive of good morals. The New YORK DAILY ADVERTISER, correcting one or two errors in the statements of the orator, adds these observations:-- " A residence in that state of nearly thirty years, during which we had a very fair opportunity to become extensively acquainted with the character of the people, enables us to say, that we never met with ten white persons, who were born and nurtured in Connecticut. who could not both read and write. Indeed if put upon the task, we could not name half that number. If there had been many more it is not easy to imagine that more than twenty years experience in the practice of law, would not have brought them to light. Mr. Barbour, in remarking that education in Connecticut was castied on at the expense of the State, probably had reference to the provision made by law for that purpose in what is called their " School The capital of that Fund is something over one million eight hundred thousand dollars. The income during the last year was a little over eighty thousand dollars. This income is by law distributed, by a given rule, to common achools throughout sand. This, probably, is not enough to pay the whole expenses of the common schools throughout the State; but it is an amount in the highest degree honourable to the character of the State. Another interesttled to the benefit of the fund was, in Auing fact relating to this subject is contained in the official report of the Commissioner of the fund, vix: - That the sum baid to the people of the State, from the public treasury, for the support of common schools, is nearly double the amount paid in taxes for the support of their civil government. We believe this fact to be unexampled in the history of civil governments." Among the extracts given by the NEW-YORK ournals from the Lonnon papers brought by the Conternian, the most remarkable annesed passage of Mr. O'CONNELL's address to the electors of CLARE. We should have seen astumbhod, we confess, had the great agitator joined in worshipping, as the deliverers of CATHOLIC IRELAND, the ministers who have yielded, according to their own declarations, merely to the pressure of circumstances and the fear of civil war. Nor could be be expected to see, with complacency, that statue raised to affected so man's life. The gla revolution which gave an Catholic Emunicipation was affected without the destruction of one particle of any sean's property—without the shedding of one drop of human blood. A solver, mural, and a religious people cannot continue slaves; they become too passerful for their oppressors; and their program towards prosperity and liberty is in vitin appeared by the Peals and Wellingtons of society. The poor strugglers for ancient abuses yield to a necessity which violates no law, and commits no crime; and having once already seconded by these means, our next enccess is equally curtain, if we adopt the same clears, I have been iflegally injured, and you have been iflegally injured, and you have been worthily insuffed, by that unworthy ministerial dexterity which deprived me of my right to represent you in Parliament. I call upon you to wipe away that injury-to blot out that moult, by sending me back to express my sentiments and yours to the men who, in so undignified a manner, injured me and insulted son."

duties of GRAND JURIOUS is taken from an able charge recently delivered by Judge STRONG Of MASSACRESETTS. It merits the attention of those who are liable to be called to serve in that important capacity, frequently without any previous knowledge of the intere of its obligations. The only pas sage relating to matters of local regulation, and therefore not generally applicable, is that which directs the mode of awearing witnesses:-

Gentlemen of the Grand Jury:
You are now impannelled, as the grand inquest for this County for the ensuing year. Your duty is briefly stated, in the oath you have taken. "You will diligently inquire, and true presentment make, of all such matters and things, as shall be given you in charge." That is, you willfaithfully attend to your duties, and impartially discharge them, according to the fair and proper operation of the testimony upon your minds; making all reasonable efforts to come to a correct conclusion, upon all subjects legitimately brought before you, for your consideration. "The commonwealth's counsel, your fellows, and your own, you shall keep secret." The obligation imposed upon you by Gentlemen of the Grand Jury:

should be entirely secret. In some instances, the individual, against whom the accusation is made, may have great power and influence in the community; and it may be injurious, or even dangerous, that it should be known, by whose arguments or ye es, in the secret recess of the Grand Jary room, a majority of that body have agreed to find a bill against him. It may expose those who from a sense of duty, and the obligations of conscience, have been compelled to decide against him, to inconveniences, oppression, and dangers; from which, it is intended, by this part of your body. If your proceedings were not secret and this secrecy secured by oath, the fear of these consequences might deter some of your body from an independent and conscientious discharge of duty, and the greatest offenders might, in some instances, escape the punishment which the law has affixed to their crimes.

Another important consideration is, to prevent escapes. In many instances complaints are preferred to the Grand Jury, in the first instance, without any previous proceedings before a magistrate, to secure the appearance of the party accused, by recognistance. In such eases a disclosure of the proceedings in the Grand Jury room, will give the person against whom a bill is found, an opportunity to escape, and thereby avoid punishment. The injunction of secrecy imposed by this part of your oath, is not confined to the term, when the indictment is found, or even to the year for which you are selected to serve; but is perpetual. You are never at any time, or on any occasion, unless required should be entirely secret. In some instances, the individual, against where the accusation is lected to serve; but is perpetual. You are never at any time, or on any occasion, unless required so to do, as a wilness, in a court of justice to disclose what takes place in your room. This injunction is not confined to a prohibition of a general account of a transaction; or whether a injunction is not consider to a prosistion or a general account of a transaction; or whether a bill is, or is not, found against a particular individual, but you are not to disclose any thing respecting it, what any individual, either a member of the Jury. County Attorney, or winness did or said. I am more particular, Gentlemen, with respect to this part of your duty, because, grand jurors are not sufficiently careful with respect to it; and do frequently, inadvertently. I have no doubt, violate their oaths in this particular. "You shall present no man for envy, hafred or malice, nor leave any man unpresented through love, fear, favour, affection, or hope of reward, but you shall present things truly, as they come to your knowledge, according to the best of your understanding." The meaning of this ie, that you shall act faitfully from the avidence before you, and not suffer yourselves to be nuthority to swear witnesses in presence of the County Attorney. The foreman should keep a list of witnesses, thus sworn by him, and, at the close of each term, the list should be filed with the Clerk. When any twelve agree to a bill the foreman should certify it to be a true bill, though he do not agree to it himself. he do not agree to it himself.

An opinion has provailed in some places, that twelve constitute a quorum of a Grand Jury, and that a majority of twelve may find a bill of indictment. This is a mistake. Not less than twelve can, in any case, find a legal bill of indictment.

The King's Dress Dinner.—On the 27th of May, the hing gave a grand dress dinner party, in the banqueting room at 8t. James's, each end of which was covered with draperies of end of which was covered with oraperes of crimson silk, divided into compartments, serving as a back ground to a large side board, which extended the whole length of the apartment, its centre projection was surmounted by a gold fount, taken from the vessel of the admiral of bee, with complacency, that statue raised to Weilliams and the statue raised to the Spanish Armada; under this fount was a subject to the celebrated from on the sweet the ministry of a man like Weilliams and the weilliams and the statue place, and the statue place, must now acknowledge that his engacity was equal to his boldness; and that he took the only sure means to effect his object.

After assuring the electors that, if chosen, he will maintain their interests, and advocate the cause of reform in every particular, the candidate says:—"To both Catholin and Protestions was a large candelabra, representing Mercall to work of marine subjects at the bottom. It was a surply of marine subjects at the bottom. It was a surple place of gold place, the largest in Great Britain, with a star of the order, of which his star of the order of the star of the order order. The order of the star of the order of the star of the order rent parts of the side board; and at the dinner table none but gold plate was used. On the table at which the king and party dined, the centra piece vapersented Neptune holding his trident, respected by sea monsters, resting on a platform, the curners of which were upheld by marine horses.—There were also some large vases, decorated with a variety of allegorical subjects, and surrounded by tritoms. A brilliant party of the nobility were present, together with Mr. Secretary Peel and his lady. After the dinner party, the king gave a ball to the juvenile branches of the nobility and gentry. The young Queen of Portugal was present, and was admired for the gracefulness of her dancing. The whole suite of apartments were thrown open. whole suite of apartments were thrown open. They were ventilated with Italian blinds, orna-They were ventrated with Italian binds, ornamented with the stars of the different orders of which the king is sourcing.—The choicest plants shot shrubs were tastefully disposed in different parts of the room; and the front of the orchestra was hing with crimen featons. The king was habited in a blue field marshalla uniform, and wore the ineignis of the Garter, and the principal Russian, French and Prussian erders. The king received the young queen of Portugal at the head of the stairs, conversed with let some time, and conducted her into the ball-room. His majesty remained a gratified speciator of the miniating diversions until two o'clock. [The foot of the young queen, during one of the dances, slipped, and she fell and hurt her face.]

The accounts from Manchester are more fa-vourable than for many months. The demand for manufactured goods had improved, and there was some return of the necessary confidence was some return of the necessary confidence among the merclinuts.

Birmingham is beginning to feel the horrors of the eyi times, Most respectable hones are actually idle for want of orders. The workmen they have hitherto employed, are either in half unipley or have been discharged. Money transactions are becoming more and more difficult of adjustment—and, what is more appalling, things are not only getting worse every day, but there eems no prospect, remote or near, of a change for the better.

Eight Spitelfields weavers have been sentenced to three months imprisonment by the magistrates for the better.

Eight Spits fields weavers have been sentenced to three months imprisonment by the magistrates of Worship street office, for a conspiracy against their employers, in having resolved with others to strike against those masters who refuse to pay within 10 per cent. of the face of the book price of 1824, and who do not continue to give out cames at that price.

Yesterday afternoon an affray of a scrious nature occurred in Bethnal Green Road, between the weavers and police officers stationed in that district. The origin of it was, that Mesers. Wisson and Moore, a few days since, gave out a quantity of work, but from the cutting which took place on Saturday and Monday, they deemed it necessary to send for it back again in an unmanufactured state. This, being an unusual circumstance, was strenously resisted on the part of those to whom the work was given.—The consequence was, that several hundred of the weavers immediately assembled, and commenced an attack upon the police, with stones, bricks, and any other weapons they could procure; live of the latter were severely wounded, and had it not been for the timely arrival of others stationed in the neighborhood, in all probability lives would have been lost, as the officers were compelled to use their awords, and discharge their pistols. Several windows were broken, and up to a late hour last night the whole of that district was in the utmost agitation and alarm. Several were secured, and underwent an examination before the magistrates at Worship street office, at the close of which they were semanded until the probable fate of one of Worship street office, at the close of which the were remanded until the probable fate of one

were remanded until the product it.

The Earl of Carnaryon presented a petition, signed by 8,000 merchants and manufacturers, of Birmingham, complaining of the present appalling state of distress in the town of Birmingham. The relief which the Patitioners called for was a reduction of taxation. The Potition was laid on the table.

Wool Trade.—The Duke of Richmond sub-H'eel Trade.—The Duke of Richmond sub-mitted to the House a series of resolutions on the subject of this trade, one of which seserted the expediency of Parliament taking "into as-rious consideration the distressed condition of the wool-growers of this Empire, with a view to their rolef." The noble Duke said, that the smaller duty which he was anxious to impose would fall partly on the Continental grower of wool, and partly on the rival exchequers of the two countries. He conceived that the propos-ed reduction would came some stir and spirit in that trade, which was now a more drug in the attempt to tax the introduction of foreign wool would have the effect of injuring both the one and the other. He should therefore oppose the and the other. He should therefore oppose the resolutions of the Noble Duke. Lard Ellenborough opposed the principle of the resolutions, and moved that the House proceed to the other orders of the day. After a brief discussion, their Lordships then divided, when there appeared, for Lord Ellenboraugh's Amendment—Contents, 89; Non-Contents, 35; Majorny, 53.—Adjourned.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, May 27.

HOUSE OF COMMERCE AND RESERVED BY A PARTY OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPERTY OF THE PARTY OF THE PA

At the request of Mr. Secretary Peel, Sir J. Machintoch postponed his notice of motion re-specting our relations with Portugal, from to-morrow to Monday next.

In the House of Commons last night, Mr. Dawson gave notice that on Monday the Chari-celler of the Exchequer will the usual Sesceller of the Exchequer will the usual Sessional Addresses. It is probable, therefore, that the Peoregation will take place on the day already mentioned—namely, the 16th of June. Buties on Sugar.—In the House of Commons, on the 28th, a metion to reduce the duties upon East and West India Sugar was discussed, and rejucted by a vote of 38 to 69. Mr. Huskisson spoke in favor of the measure, contending that it must at some fine be adopted. It was opposed by the Chanceller of the Exchequer upon the ground of the present wants of the revenue—there being a deficiency for the quarter of 500,000.

Printed Calicoes.—Mr. Hume, in moving for a return of the quantity of printed calicoes, with the drawbachs and duties payable on the same, observed that calico printing was in the years 1826, 1827, and 1828, the only branch, except paper painting, that was subject to the excise. By the new laws, this branch of industry was likely to be extinguished, as it was superseded he alls. The tax amounted to 100 per cent, or EXTENSIVE CONPLAGNATION.—The British Diorama and Royal Bessar, Oxford-street, were on Wednesday evening reduced to a heap of roins. Between three and four o'cluck in the afternoon the accident occurred, which in a very short time spread the greatest terror and construction throughout the neighbourhood; and, ewing to the confusion that reigned, a considerable time elapsed before means could be effectually adopted to prevent the flames from extending to the adjoining buildings. The building was one of very great extent, and of fashionable resort by the haut fon. Part of it consisted of a large picture gallery, in which a number of paintings, consisting of views of York Minster, Algiers, &c. were daily exhibited. In the front part of the building, which was only divided from the picture-gallery by a very elight partition, were extensive rows or estands, where partitions, were extensive rows or extends, where articles of almost every description were exposed for sale; and which, at the time of the accident, were visited by a good seal of company. The Diorama was well attended by company, and several views had been exhibited, the grand finale, was a view of York Missiar when on fire! The exhibitor of the picture, to give a greater effect to the scene, had a chemical preparation which he set on fire behind the scene, for the purpose of giving a crission appearance to the flames. Unfortunately, a current of air carried the burning liquid to a chimney, and that and some alight wood material instantly caught fire. A loose acene was next ignited; and, before there was time or opportunity for presuring water, owing to the inflammable nature of the materials lying in every direction, the flames antanded to such a degree, that not only the audience (who at first could not account for the materials lying in every direction, the flames antanded to such a degree, that not only the audience (who at first could not account for the materials lying in every direction, the flames antanded to such a degree, that not only the audience (who at first could not account for the singular appearance of the scene, but the persons belonging to the establishment, were obliged to retreat from the building, or they would have instituted to carry off their property; some rushed out of the building with what they could be in vain. Paris papers of Thursday were received last night. It is stated, on the authority of letters from Jassy, of the 8th May, that all accounts from the theatre of war agree in stating that very sanguinary actions have lately taken place at Silistria and in the environs of Schumla, where the Turks have displayed unparalleled valour, and fought with a desperation bordering on frency. Their enthusiasm is excited to the highest degree; and since they have been disciplined renzy. Their enthusiasm is excited to the high-est degree; and since they have been disciplined in the European manner, their corps of infantry have on several occasions performed evolutions which would do honour to the tactics of an ex-perienced army, and which prove that their operations are directed by able Chiefs. In the operations are directed by able Chiefs. In the midst of these innovations, which are attended with so much success, the ancient usages which may encourage the soldier are not neglected.—Dervises appear at the head of the troops, and recite prayers, and sing hymns, which the Turkish soldiers repeat, while they animate each other; and when their fanaticism is thus excited they rush to the combat like madmon, uttering dreadful cries. The number of Turkish troops increases dudy, and is at least equal to that of the Russians.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE,

Soon after 12 o'clock last night, our citizens were aroused by the cry of fire, and the general ringing of the bells. It was soon ascertained that the fire was in the upper part of the city, and that it bore an alarming appearance. It commenced in the rear of 24! Spring street, and destroyed upwards of twenty buildings on the block bounded cast by Varick street, west by Hudson street, north by Vandam street, and south by Spring street. Most of the buildings in the rear were frame, small, and occupied by numerous families, whose names we find it very difficult to obtain. On Spring street, six good two story brick front buildings were destroyed: they were occupied as follows:—

CAUTION TO PURCHASERS.

This Medicine had been used for more than 7 years before an effort was made to indicate it, but the great demand for it, and its wenderful encreas, have induced a great number of persons to limitate it in various waysaquerds of fifty different meatures have been got up in initiation of it, which is a convincing proof of its being a medicine of great value. Soons are selling Strangariths and other syrups, imposing them on the ignorant for he Pannece; others are mixing the genuine medicine with molesses, &c. making there bottles out of one, thus retaining some of its virtues; others are using the genuine Pannece in their bottles to perform curse, to obtain sertificates to give their own a reputation, &c.—Some have even resorted to perjuny to deceive the public. Those imitations and adultrations have, in many instances, perfected the sufferings of patients in diseases where the genuine Swaim's Panaces would have proved instantly efficacious. Itherefore deem it a duty I own the public to assure them, that the composition of my Panacea is not known, nor was it ever communicated to any other person in any way whatever, and consequently, that all other mustures represented to be mine, refraculent impositions. "HE opportunity afforded by the winter steath, has enabled the advertiser to replenish his Ware Room, anticipasing, as usual, at the opening season, an infeat of demand for the article in which he is happy to say his success in the proximity to perfection has exceeded his most sanguine expectation. The ready sale of these improved Piano Fortes is, and has been, a most satisfactory test of this fact, and it is a matter of no small moment to offer again his unfeigned thanks, for the almost unparalleled encouragement with which he has been m.t, by his friends of the Country as well as the City.

In thus tendering his grateful regards to his fellow citizens and paterns; generally, he avails himself of the opportunity of offering an entire new assertment of the best productions from his Manufactory, which certainly will need no verbal recommendation from himself, assured as he is that his insuruments can speak purely and firmly for themselves.
